

Curriculum Vitae

Marianna Theodora was born in Athens, Greece and studied Medicine in the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens (NKUA). She worked for “Medecin Sans Frontieres” for seven years reaching the post of the Head of Medical dpt. She trained in Obstetrics and Gynecology in the 1st dpt Obgyn in Alexandra Hospital (NKUA). Her PhD Thesis was: “Sonographic Evaluation of Cervical Length and Fetal Fibronectin Presence in Cervicovaginal secretions as predictive markers of labor induction success”.

She is a european Materno-Fetal and Perinatal Medicine Specialist accredited by the European Board and College of the Obstetrics and Gynecology and the European Association of Perinatal Medicine.

She is currently working as an Assistant Professor in Obstetrics & Gynecology, MFM specialist in the 1st dpt of Obstetrics-Gynecology of NKUA. She has more than 40 research articles published in peer-review journals and more than 10 chapters in medical books.

She was vice president of the administrative council of the Greek section of Medecins Sans Frontieres. Currently she is a member of the administrative council of the Hellenic Society of Ultrasound in Obstetrics and Gynecology.